SLAUSON CONNECT

Slauson Connect: A CD 9 Community Hub

Los Angeles City Councilmember Curren Price is leading the effort to bring a multi-million dollar innovative and interactive multipurpose facility to District 9. "The Slauson Connect" will be a place for community members to learn, create and enjoy green space. To date, Councilmember Price has successfully secured $23.3 million towards the project.

Below is a summary of the first-of-its-kind project in the Ninth District:

Overview:

- 10,000 square foot community resource center with a two-acre park along Slauson Avenue next to Metro's $140 million Rail to River greenbelt project
- Outdoor open space for resting with shade structures and trees
- Play areas with active recreation and exercise equipment for all ages
- Horticulture Art displays and botanical gardens
- Nature-based learning area with infographic display panels
- Pedestrian and bike pathways with California drought-tolerant landscaping
- Self-cleaning restrooms and hydration facilities

Community Center Elements:

- South LA History Museum
- Daycare center and after school programming for youth
- Small meeting rooms for study sessions and tutoring
- Computer rooms
- Fitness room and studio
- Free wifi and charging stations for phones and devices
- Multimedia Recording Studios

Expected completion in 2023
